

Its not just a hunt... Its an experience.

At Grand Whitetails, we understand that it can be a difficult task to identify the right outfitter for you. With that being said, we'd like to offer one piece of advice which may assist the prospective hunter in their decision: the easiest way to identify the right outfitter for you is to measure each outfitter not by the size of the deer you can harvest, but rather the greatness of the experience you will be remembering for the rest of your life.

Northern Missouri's trophy Whitetail country boasts a terrain and vegetation system geared to producing world-class Whitetail. Nestled in the Grand River bottoms near Swan Lake Wildlife Refuge, Grand Whitetails offers hunters the hunt and experience of a lifetime. In addition to our 100% encounter rate on bucks at 135" and above, as well as an 86% success rate during the 2009-2010 season, we offer our clients a peace of mind rarely experienced at other outfitters. When you arrive at the Grand Whitetails lodge and facility, the feeling of satisfaction knowing that you made the right decision is immediate, even before the hunt begins. Grand Whitetails style of hunting is performed from ladder stands and elevated blinds strategically setup along food plots and travel corridors known to be successful. With a year-round staff to assist in the management of our properties, each year produces greater results with larger, more mature deer.

Missouri, unlike many of its neighboring states, offers over the counter tags making it very simple for hunters to obtain licensing and permit requirements without having to worry about deadlines. Each hunt at Grand Whitetails includes lodging and 3 meals (a continental-style breakfast, a sack lunch, and a home-style dinner).
